

GIVE LOCAL COMMUNITIES A VOICE IN HOUSING DECISIONS

Make Your Voice Heard

California needs more housing. But communities like Grover Beach should also have a meaningful voice in how we plan for growth.

California's Regional Housing Needs Allocation (RHNA) process establishes housing targets that local cities must plan to accommodate. If you believe those decisions should better account for local infrastructure, water, environmental considerations, market realities, and community priorities, you can make your voice heard.

SEND A LETTER TO OUR STATE REPRESENTATIVES

We've made it easy. Use the two letters included with this packet to ask our State Senator and Assemblymember to support reforms that provide communities with greater flexibility while continuing to encourage responsible housing development.

HERE'S HOW
